

No, no, no, a thousand times no. It is wishful thing at best that this technology would benefit anyone but unscrupulous providers. It simply is technically unadvisable at this time. The Japanese have documented this after much study and review. Enough already!

Ron Marshall